

INT. MAX'S MOTEL ROOM - EVENING

Max enters into a totally dark room - the lights are off, the blinds are shut. He turns on the lights and carefully looks around the room.

He makes his way to the bathroom and checks behind the bath curtain. It's empty. He turns on the TV. On it, O'Brien gives answers questions from a reporter at his house with his family -

SHERIFF O'BRIEN

I know Max has been working diligently to find any evidence to support his claim.

Max opens his fast food and starts eating.

BARBARA FREEDMAN

How exactly have you been assisting?

SHERIFF O'BRIEN

Helping in this case is tricky since Max is a civilian and we haven't officially reopened the case.

BARBARA FREEDMAN

Why not officially reopen the case?

SHERIFF O'BRIEN

Our department is tasked with keeping roughly fifty-four thousand citizens safe every day. We just don't have the resources to sink into this. With that being said, any questions Max has, I've provided the best answers I can.

BARBARA FREEDMAN

Is there any lead?

SHERIFF O'BRIEN

You will be the first to know if one comes up.

Barbara goes to ask another questions, but O'Brien cuts her off.

BARBARA FREEDMAN

How has this...

SHERIFF O'BRIEN

I'm sorry Barbara, I'm gonna spend some time with my family. Have a nice night.

The Sheriff walks away, picking up one of his granddaughters before heading inside.
